Green light to the acquisition of the TMF Group by Prim@ever and the Olano Group

Published on December 17, 2021

At the end of its examination, the Autorité was able to rule out any competitive risk in view of the new entity's market share levels in the markets for the domestic road transport of temperature-controlled goods. The Autorité was also able to rule out any risk of harm to competition in the markets for courier and logistics services and any risk of coordination between the parent companies in the various markets in which they are active.
