Save the Date: “Economics and Sustainability” Workshop

Published on August 04, 2026

Following the call for papers launched in May, the Autorité de la concurrence will host a workshop on “Economics and Sustainability” in Paris on 5 October 2026.

Environmental considerations have become increasingly integral to the analysis underpinning public policy and corporate strategy, with implications for both antitrust enforcement and merger control.

Assessing these considerations raises methodological questions about the tools and approaches needed to evaluate environmental benefits and harms in a robust and rigorous manner.

The workshop will bring together academics, practitioners and representatives of public institutions to discuss methods for valuing environmental benefits and harms, with a particular focus on their application to competition analysis.

When and where

- Monday, 5 October 2026
- 182 rue Saint-Honoré, 75001 Paris

The programme and registration details will be announced shortly.

“ECONOMICS AND SUSTAINABILITY” WORKSHOP

Valuation of environmental benefits and harms: Methods, practices and implications for competition analysis

See the event page