

@Echelle Event: Europe in the face of American and Chinese economic nationalism

Published on March 06, 2020

As the new European Commission is settling in, its new configuration indicates that competition in the digital market will be one of the main subjects of its mandate.

In this context, several questions are at the center of the debates: is the emergence of "European champions" hampered by European competition policy? How to fight against foreign anti-competitive practices? What political compromise in a context marked by American and Chinese economic nationalism?

After welcoming the authors of the expert report to the European Commission and the Furman report last year, the Autorité de la concurrence wishes to continue discussions by inviting Emmanuel Combe, professor of universities, professor at the Skema Business School and vice-president of the Autorité de la concurrence, Paul-Adrien Hyppolite and Antoine Michon to present their study devoted to "Europe facing American and Chinese economic nationalism" published at the Fondation pour l'Innovation Politique at the next @Echelle event on Tuesday 24 March from 8:30 am to 10 am.

If you wish to attend this event, you can register at:
evenementatechelle@autoritedelaconcurrence.fr

Limited seats available.

We inform you that the exchanges will be filmed and accessible on the internet.

