

The Autorité has opened an investigation into alleged practices in the fuel supply, storage and distribution sector in Corsica

Published on December 21, 2021

In decision 21-SO-17 of 15 December 2021, the Autorité de la concurrence opened an investigation into alleged practices in the fuel products supply, storage and distribution sector in Corsica.

This decision to start proceedings ex officio does not pre-suppose the guilt of any undertaking or professional body. If objections are eventually notified, only an inter partes investigation that respects the rights of defence of the parties concerned would enable the Board to determine, after exchanging written observations and following an oral hearing, whether or not these objections are well-founded.
