Step 1: Recognize When You've Missed a Flight

Air Canada considers a flight missed when:

- You arrive at the gate after it has closed
- You do not board the plane before departure
- No prior request for a flight change was successfully processed

Common reasons for missing a flight include:

- Traffic or transportation delays
- Delayed connecting flights
- Long security or customs queues
- Personal emergencies
- Late arrival at the airport

📞 1-855-924-0134 can confirm whether your flight is officially missed and guide you to recovery options immediately.

Step 2: Act Quickly – Contact Air Canada Support

The most important action after missing a flight 📞 1-855-924-0134 is contacting Air Canada as soon as possible. Fast action can:

- Preserve the value of your remaining flight segments
- Allow rebooking on the next available flight
- Open alternate route options, even via partner airlines
- Reduce fees or fare differences

📞 Call 1-855-924-0134 right away. Waiting can lead to automatic cancellation of subsequent flights.

Step 3: Determine the Cause of Your Missed Flight

Air Canada 📞 1-855-924-0134 evaluates missed flights based on the reason for the miss:

1. Airline-Related Delays:

- Late aircraft arrival
- Operational or scheduling issues
- Mechanical delays

✅ Usually, Air Canada assists with rebooking at no extra cost.

2. Passenger-Related Delays:

- Late arrival at airport or gate
- Missed connection due to personal delays
- Documentation issues

 Rebooking is subject to fare rules and availability. Early contact improves your chances.

 1-855-924-0134 can clarify which category applies to your situation.

Step 4: Check Your Ticket Type

Your Air Canada fare type directly impacts your options:

Fare Type	Flexibility	Missed Flight Outcome
Economy Standard	Moderate	Change fees + fare difference may apply
Premium Economy	Higher	Easier rebooking, some fee flexibility
Business / Signature Class	High	Priority recovery, minimal fees
Basic or Promo Fares	Low	May lose ticket value if missed

 1-855-924-0134 for fare-specific guidance and recovery options.

Step 5: Explore Same-Day or Next-Available Flight Options

Depending on availability, Air Canada can:

- Rebook you on the next flight to your destination
- Suggest alternate routing via connecting cities
- Upgrade cabin if open seats are available
- Place you on a standby list for full flights

 Time is crucial; immediate contact ensures the best possible outcome.

Step 6: Missed Connecting Flights

For multi-leg trips:

- Airline delays → Air Canada usually rebooks connecting flights automatically
- Passenger delays → Rebooking depends on ticket rules

Pro Tip: Always keep all boarding passes and confirmation numbers ready. This speeds up processing.

Step 7: What Happens to Checked Baggage?

If your bags were already checked:

- Air Canada will remove them from the flight
- Hold them until a new flight is confirmed
- Reroute them automatically once a new flight is booked

 1-855-924-0134 for baggage coordination if you missed your flight.

Step 8: No-Show Policy

Failing to show up without contacting Air Canada can result in:

- Cancellation of remaining flights in your itinerary
- Loss of prepaid services
- Limited refund options

 Early contact ensures better rebooking and ticket preservation.

 1-855-924-0134

Step 9: Using Travel Credits

If your ticket is eligible, Air Canada may issue:

- Travel credits for future flights
- Credits with defined expiration dates
- Rebooking with applicable fare differences

 1-855-924-0134 to confirm credit eligibility and rebooking options.

Step 10: Preventive Tips to Avoid Missed Flights

- Arrive at the airport well before recommended check-in times
- Monitor flight status online and via mobile notifications
- Allow extra time for customs and immigration, especially for international flights
- Call Air Canada immediately if you suspect a delay or connection risk

 1-855-924-0134 for guidance to avoid missed flights.
